WOMAN'S WORK IN EPISCOPAL CHURCH ON STEADY INCREASE

Report of Auxiliary President One of Main Features of Annual Convocation

The report presented by Mrs. H. M. von Holt, president of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Episcopal church, at the annual meeting of the organization Tuesday in Davies Memorial hall speaks well of the work which the women of the diocese are doing throughout the territory. The meeting itself was one of the most interesting sessions of the twelfth annual conference of the church.

Mrs. von Holt's report follows: "A year's experience in holding this office is a totally inadequate length of time in which to gain or assimilate the knowledge required to make a proper, presidential address. One has only just begun to find one's self, to realize the great possibilities and responsibilities."

"Our work has been hampered in many ways by the absence of Mrs. Stevens, the former secretary, whose ill health, coming on shortly after the last annual meeting, has unfortunately made it imperative for her to resign. We are, however, most fortunate in having Miss Gillet accept the office who, though she has filled it only since Easter, has already proved her unfailing interest and executive ability."

"The offices of educational secretary, new in this district this year, have been ably filled by Mrs. H. McK. Harrison, and we are glad to know she is willing to continue her interest and help in this work. The best results are everywhere apparent along these educational lines, and more and more are being achieved by mission leaders and workers. At the regular convocation held in New York last October the greatest attention was shown to our study classes, mission plays and exhibits which were going on every day."

"I feel sure that as we plan for and with Mr. Harrison's help, encourage our different branches in different study classes, they will become more universal. The expressions of loving and active interest which reach us all from every side show the growth of the work for missions. The splendid and enthusiastic attention given to the reports of your delegates to the triennial convention was most gratifying. To us who look forward annually and enjoy this coming together of all the clergy and workers from the other islands and the parishes here, it would seem to need only an enlarging of our imagination to picture the scenes and feel the impetus given at those great triennial convocations. However much as we may feel we can imagine it all, still the blessedness of it, the tremendous uplift and inspiration can only be experienced by being a part of it. Let me urge every woman here to look forward to the day she is privileged to go as a delegate. Two years from now we hope to have many who are able to go and, believe me, they will never forget such a wonderful experience. The thrill of being one of thousands of women all with one grand ideal before them. The generosity and loving services of it, when over $307,000 could be found offered up and overflowing on that beautiful altar of St. John the Divine. The glorious services, the personal contact with the great leaders of our church, all remain indelible in one's memory. The delegate from England, a splendid young woman who knew my sister, Miss von Holt, told me she was much impressed by the tremendous distances the delegates had come. China, Japan, Honolulu, places half around the world all had their full number of representatives. And dear Bishop Tuttle, to whom we had letters, wrote to Mrs. Cooke and I about it, and what a wonderful distance it was of the intense love and service of the church women and especially the woman's auxiliary. Let us then as members of this district branch of Honolulu be eager and ready to go on enlarging our horizon and with the guidance of our educational secretary and through our study classes, make ourselves intelligent auxiliaries to the work of our clergy as well as generous and sympathetic ones."

The treasurer of the association is making a special effort at the present time to secure additional funds for the association to prevent a prospective large deficit at the end of the summer.

The physical department is getting ready to put on a tennis tournament. There will be contests in both singles and doubles. Call on G. E. Jackson, acting physical director, for particulars.

George Andrus of the Kamehameha schools, who is well known in local musical circles, will be in charge of the Y. M. C. A. office during the coming summer, and direct the musical features of the association's meetings.

The recent gift of half a dozen pines and gardeners to the association has added to the attractiveness of the lobby and social rooms. The association would now like some large palms to set in front of the building by the main stairs.

The new social work department for the meeting of newcomers and getting them started in Honolulu life, is meeting with great success under the direction of a strong committee of which C. B. Gage is chairman and W. H. Heinrichs secretary.

The board of directors will meet at noon next Thursday to handle business matters for June. Among the items to come up for discussion will be the appointment of a physical director and the adoption of a budget covering June, July and August.

A. L. Mackaye, chairman of the entertainment committee, is outlining plans for a lawn party on the association's lawn in July. This will be the first use to which the lawn has been put since the location of the association in its present quarters.

The bowling alleys will be closed during the summer on account of the decrease in trade which is usual at this time of the year. The bowling alleys are an extremely popular feature during the eight cooler months, but even their popularity has not yet enabled the association to run them at a profit. They are run at a loss of about $50 a month.

A French scientist attributes the benefit of sunlight at high altitudes upon persons to a preponderance of ultra-violet rays which induce a more active circulation of the blood.

A self-winding electric clock that strikes the hours and chimes the quarters is a novelty, such timepieces heretofore lacking the striking feature.

WOMAN'S BOARD MEETING LARGE IN ATTENDANCE

Interesting Annual Session of Mission Workers Entertained and Given Instruction

The annual meeting of the Woman's Board of Missions held Tuesday, June 2, was a most profitable and enjoyable occasion and will merit the large attendance which it called out. The morning session opened with a most interesting devotional service, conducted by the president, Mrs. Theodore Richards. The balance of the morning was given up to the monthly annual reports, the four departments of the work and the four auxiliaries reporting.

At 12 o'clock a delightful luncheon on the program occurred—namely a chicken luncheon served in the parish house to perhaps 150 members and friends of the board, both ladies and gentlemen. After luncheon and subsequent social intercourse the meeting resumed at 1:30. The reports of the treasurer and the appropriation committee and program committee were made and officers for the coming year elected. The special program of the afternoon was the visualization of the work of the board in its four departments, among the Hawaiians, Chinese, Japanese and Portuguese.

The center of the stage was first taken by 14 little Japanese girls from the Japanese Children's Home from two or three years of age to ten years old who, under the direction of Miss Julia Gulick, missionary among the Japanese, went through two motion songs, one in English and one in Japanese. These diminutive tots in their picturesque costumes thoroughly captivated the audience. This group was followed by twenty-four Hawaiian girls from the Industrial School who gave scripture recitations and sang beautifully. Next came Mrs. MacKenzie's "Try Brigade" from the Juniors of Beretania Mission. Their motto displayed on their banners was "Try and Keep on Trying." To the inspiring music of a lively march played by one of their members the girls marched and counter-marched finally forming the letter T, then R, then Y and concluded with a song in unison. The work of the older girls' club at Beretania Mission was represented by six girls who came on the stage bearing three strands of bunting, white and blue, in recognition of the colors they intended to weave into their lives the principles represented by these colors, and then in a sort of May Day procession braided the strands together. The last department to be represented was the Portuguese work and the girls of the Aurora Society gave some excellent recitations and songs. At the end all the participants were grouped on the stage in one grand finale and united in singing "My Country," a most impressive closing exercise.

MEETINGS IN THEATER FOR MEN OF CITY

James Wakefield to Lead Y. M. C. A. Committee in Holding Sunday Services

A special committee is being organized by the Y. M. C. A. to have charge of the Sunday theater meetings for men to be held during July and August. James A. Wakefield has accepted the chairmanship of the committee. The first meeting of the committee will be held Monday night to plan the series of meetings. This summer will be the first time since the Christian Extension Movement three years ago that the church have not held meetings in the theaters during the summer. It was recently decided by the Inter-Church Federation to ask the Y. M. C. A. to hold meetings for men in one of the theaters while the churches hold general out-door meetings at Kapiolani Park.

The success of the meetings that have been held by the churches and association in the past assures the popularity of the coming series. Local speakers will be used, though probably not more than two different men as the committee have found that the men attending the meetings enjoy hearing the same speaker a number of times. A special orchestra and male quartet will be organized to provide the music.

You may be able to convince yourself that contentment is better than great riches if you have both.

SHERWOOD EDDY SOON TO VISIT THESE ISLANDS

Secretary of Y. M. C. A. of Asia and His Wife Will Arrive Here Next Thursday

Q. Sherwood Eddy, secretary of the Y. M. C. A. for Asia, and Mrs. Eddy, will be the guests of the local Y. M. C. A. next Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Eddy will be through passengers of the Shinyo Maru. While here Mr. Eddy will be used by the association to speak at several meetings.

Possibly a theater meeting will be held at noon to give the business men an opportunity to hear him. He is considered one of the leading speakers in Christian work for men. He gives about half of his time to the student work in the Orient, where he travels with John R. Mott he has drawn night after night large crowds of men to hear his message.

LOCAL Y. M. C. A. BEATS THEM ALL SAYS JAY URICE

Educational Secretary of Honolulu "Y" Visits Mainland and Reports Back

Jay A. Urice, educational secretary of the Honolulu Y. M. C. A., who is now touring the mainland.

Jay A. Urice, educational secretary of the local Y. M. C. A., who is now touring the mainland, is glad that he is a member of the staff of the Honolulu association. At least, this is to be inferred from a letter just received from him telling of his visits to associations on the Pacific coast. He finds that the local organization has its work developed to such an extent that it stands favorably compared in many ways with the big associations in San Francisco, Oakland, Portland and Seattle.

"But there is one place where we can outclass the whole bunch so far that comparison is a joke, and that is our cafeteria," he writes.

In part his letter to the local staff reads as follows: "I am having a splendid trip. Have done San Francisco, Oakland, Portland and Tacoma and am not at Seattle as you will see. I find the men everywhere are very courteous and I have had a fine reception everywhere I have stopped. It's the word 'Honolulu' that does it, for they all seem to think that a person from there is a great curiosity."

"I think that I had the finest hospitality shown me in San Francisco. They have a fine spirit about the place that gets you the minute you enter the lobby. Their scheme of personal work and helpfulness to individual men is as fine a thing as I have ever heard of. They are doing a big work in San Francisco but no one seems busy. The heads of the departments spend much of their time in the lobby and each man has a big circle of personal friends among the members. Their physical director tells me that one-sixth of their men use the physical department each day."

"I like Seattle very much. The educational secretary here seems to come as near doing the ideal work as any I have seen yet. He is a splendid promoter and administrator as well as an educator. He has strong competition from the public high schools and is using very advanced methods to meet it. I heard him teach a lesson in 'Salesmanship' to a secretarial class recently."

"I haven't found a place yet where they knew what I was talking about when I asked if they had 'fellowship' men on their force. At San Francisco they thought they had one once. Neither do they have any secretarial classes at these places. Most all of the associations seem to start them in the fall, but they can't keep them going. Our general promotion of activities for members and the organization of our Bible study and religious work in other departments is in advance of anything I have seen on the coast."

"But there is one place where we outclass the whole bunch so far that comparison is a joke. That is in our cafeteria. Never again will I take a scone out on Manager Emmans' eating establishment."

"I'll have to ship my notebook back by freight. The Honolulu association looks mighty good when you see these other places which are often look at as ideal in certain ways."

REAFFIRMATION OBJECTIONS AT CHURCH MEETING

(By Latest Mail)

CANTERBURY, Eng.—Speaking in the upper house of the convocation of Canterbury on the resolution proposed by the bishop of London, reaffirming certain questions of Anglican doctrine, recently the subject of controversy, the bishop of Hereford said that in his opinion the resolution was "inopportune and not required."

Proceeding, Dr. Percival moved an amendment expressing the opinion that, after carefully considering the appeals made to them, the bishops whilst earnestly sympathizing with the anxiety and distress of those who appealed, would not be serving the highest and best interests of the church by issuing any fresh declaration at the present time, experience having shown that such declarations are not the wisest or most convincing means of upholding faith, and encouraging a reverent and truth-seeking study of Holy Scripture.

The bishop said they should do nothing to limit the liberty which since the Reformation had been the heritage of all loyal members of the church. During the past two generations very persistent endeavors had been made to go behind the English Reformation. He urged that they would be serving the church best by closing the door against reverent and self-seeking study of Holy Scripture and the early history of the church.

Dr. Percival was followed by the bishop of Chelmsford, who called attention to the "dangerous effect of Biblical criticism upon the masses of the people." They all valued, he said, the reverent research of scholars, but while they considered one scholar they must not overlook the undermining of the faith of thousands of their fellow men.

The Bishop of Oxford, who spoke next, said he heartily associated himself with the bishop of Chelmsford. So far as argument with their critical friends was concerned, he always felt inclined to say that they should be conducted through literature, and not as they often were, indirectly through reports in the newspapers.

He was quite sure, however, they needed to be extremely tender with all trials and doubts. They were not concerned with hypocrites. They were quite right in showing toleration to men's convictions so long as they did not involve the denial of historical facts.
